

Handwriting

Here are the passages from the book for you to copy out to practise your joined up handwriting. Please remember you do not have to do them all.

- You need to write on lined paper.
- Think about the size of your letters as well as joining them up clearly.
- Tall letters must be tall and letters with tails should sit on the line with the tails going underneath.

There are almost as many different types of dragons as there are people to imagine them. Some are more common than others.

Dragons are a proud species. They are shy of humans.

Dragons spend many hours grooming and polishing their fine scales until they shine.

If a dragon gives you a gift of a scale it means it will come to you, if ever you need help. Keep it safe. Never give it away. Never show it to anyone.

Some dragons do form friendships with humans, but no one can ever 'own' a dragon.

Only a weather wizard can ride a sky dragon.
